ASK Jakey Boy

Dear Jakey Boy,

I'm a film student at Temple very interested in making gore films. Can you give me any advice on filming realistic gore scenes?

Tommy

Dear Tommy,

A good way to start the center cut is to slit the skin for about 3 or 4 inches at the breast bone. Insert your free hand and press the inner organs down out of the way as you continue to cut, now turning the blade of the knife upward. Continue to press downward with your free hand as you go, and cut almost to the end of the gut cavity. When this long slit is made, roll the skin back about 3 or 4 inches on either side of the cut. At this point the innards and intestines will be protruding. Good luck.
